Liberal Cabinet will meet here

The Cabinet of Ontario Premier David Peterson will be meeting in the Haliburton Highlands this weekend.

Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins announced on Monday that the Cabinet and the entire Liberal caucus will be gathering at PineStone Inn on Highway 121 for a formal meeting.

"I'm extremely proud that they are coming to the Haliburton Highlands," Eakins told The Times. "This is the first time this government has chosen to meet outside of Toronto. We can all feel proud that they chose the Haliburton Highlands for this meeting."

In fact, it is rare for the Cabinet to meet anywhere but at Queen's Park. The Conservative government under Bill Davis did try a few meetings away from Toronto several years ago, but it is indeed a rare occurrence.

Eakins said the meeting was an extension of the Liberal government's policy to share the workings of government with all parts of the province. However, while the fact the Cabinet and caucus will be here during the weekend may heighten the profile of the Liberal government, all the deliberations of the government's inner circle and the entire Liberal caucus will take place behind closed doors. Cabinet and caucus meetings, wherever they are convened, are always held in strict secrecy.

The Cabinet meeting will take place Sunday afternoon and evening at PineStone Inn with the Liberal caucus meeting on Monday. Presumably there will be time for some recreational pursuits as well at the well-appointed resort or at other facilities in the Highlands.

Council rejects airport plebiscite

Stanhope Municipal Council has rejected a request to include a plebiscite in the upcoming municipal election concerning the proposed development of the Stanhope Airport.

The request was contained in a petition bearing 225 signatures that was presented to council on Wednesday, September 11, by Curtis Eastmure, a resident of the township and co-owner of the Maple Sands Resort. Eastmure told council the plebiscite would provide, "The fairest, most democratic method," of determining public opinion on the airport development.

Concerns have been expressed by many local ratepayers over the necessity of upgrading the airport at a cost of $800,000 in federal and provincial funds, he said.

While indicating he was not opposed to the airport "as it stands," the project calling for the overall development of the site including paving the runway and upgrading lighting would be "A waste of money and would have a detrimental impact on well established resorts in the area" adding few resorts in the county would benefit from the airport development.

"There is more to this issue than just money," he said. "There is also the disruption caused when bigger planes started coming in."

Eastmure conceded that cottagers' associations in the township have indicated their support of the development but argued, "Not all people (in the township) are represented by cottagers' associations."

"There has not been an open meeting to discuss the airport," he said, adding, "I don't like committees-of-the-whole being used to discuss the issue," referring to a report published in the Echo that Derek Rolfe, chairman and safety officer of the Stanhope Airport Committee, had addressed council in committee-of-the-whole during the regular meeting of council on August 7.

Councillor Ann Barker objected to the statement emphasizing council had not discussed airport business during the closed portion of the meeting. She added the published report was based on an assumption by the reporter.

Eastmure continued to press the issue, questioning whether a feasibility study had been carried out to determine if the location of the airport was suitable and whether there was a need for an upgraded facility. He noted officials of the Ministry of Transportation and Communications, Ontario Hydro and other organizations in the county saw no need for the airport development.

During his presentation, Eastmure indicated ratepayers opposed to council's decision to develop the airport may run as candidates in the November municipal election.

Councillor Ann Barker reacted to the statement by saying "When people have something to gripe about, they threaten to run, but they don't follow through. This council is not going to buckle." She told Eastmure council has considered the concerns of area residents. "We have been fair. We have gone along with the shorter runway and a restriction on the size of the airport," she said. Noting the airport has been in operation for 17 years, Barker asked, "How many people have moved into the area since the airport was built?" "They must have realized improvements would be made."

Councillor Dale MacDonald reacted to the comment by Eastmure who said "We may have to run a ticket in the next election" by stating he was fed up with the criticism of council's decision to improve the airport, arguing, "The association members have had their say and they are not opposed."

Referring to a comment by Derek Rolfe that some residents of the area near the airport had been told the runway would be increased to 4000 feet (from the existing 2560 feet) and that all trees within a one mile radius of the airport would have to be cut down, MacDonald said he believed people had been misled

Purchase of boat for emergencies back by council

While no definite decision has been made, Anson, Hindon and Minden council supports the idea of purchasing an emergency watercraft to provide services to water access properties in the area.

Council decided to investigate possible provincial funding assistance at the August 29 council meeting following a request by a representative of the Gull Lake Cottagers Association for a fire boat to be used by the Minden volunteer fire department.

Tom Douglas told council there are in excess of one hundred cottages in Lutterworth Township that have no road access and, in the event of a fire in one of these cottages, firefighters and equipment must be transported by boat.

At that meeting council instructed the clerk-treasurer Beverly Millar to determine if provincial assistance was available to purchase an emergency watercraft.

At the regular meeting of council Thursday, September 12, Millar reported funding was available through the provincial Joint Emergency Planning Program but noted that any craft purchased by the municipality would have to be made available in the event of any emergency, not solely for the purpose of fighting fires.

Millar said the program would provide 50% of the total costs of purchasing a boat.

Reeve Lyle McKnight said he believed the craft would cost in excess of the $3000 to $4000 estimate made by Fire Chief William Jackson but said he felt the expense was worthwhile. Aside from the water access properties in Lutterworth Township that are served by the Minden Fire Department, "There are enough water access properties in our own municipality to consider purchasing a boat" McKnight said.

Councillor Gary Kenney agreed, adding some properties in the municipality could be reached more quickly by boat than by the department's pumper truck because of the narrow winding cottage roads. Council agreed with his suggestion that the municipality approach the fire department, the Ontario Provincial Police and the Minden Ambulance Service for information on the necessary requirements for an emergency craft.

Reeve McKnight noted that although municipal funds are not available for the purchase of an emergency craft at present, funds could be made available in next year's budget.

Hall's Lake developer will honour bylaw

A property owner on Hall's Lake has indicated to Stanhope council he will go along with an interim control bylaw which placed a freeze on his proposed development of a trailer park.

In a letter read at the meeting of Stanhope council on September 11, Robert Pakenham, the solicitor acting on behalf of Dr. Thomas Offen of Toronto, stated his client was willing to work with council on any future development of the site, but cautioned, if necessary, court action will be taken to fight the freeze.

The proposed trailer park has been the target of criticism by residents of Hall's Lake since June when Dr. Offen informed council of his intention to create one hundred trailer lots on 14 acres of land.

Objecting to the impact of the park on the area, lake residents lobbied Stanhope council to pass an interim control bylaw that would place a freeze on the development until a study had been carried out to determine the impact of increased road and marine traffic, noise, pollution and the park sewage disposal system on the immediate area.

After consulting the municipal solicitor, council passed an interim control bylaw on August 24, which places a freeze on the development while a water quality study is carried out on Hall's Lake. The bylaw is effective for one year, but may be repealed when the study has been completed. (Council passed a resolution on September 11 requesting the Ministry of the Environment carry out the study.)

Council also restricted the number of trailer lots to 65 on the 14 acre site under the comprehensive zoning bylaw passed on August 24.

In his letter to council on September 11, Dr. Offen's solicitor pointed out the trailer park development had begun before the interim control bylaw was passed.

Noting his client had the approved zoning, had filed all the necessary applications with provincial ministries and the municipality and had spent a considerable amount of money on the project, and had intended to proceed with the development, Pakenham argued the trailer park had already established lawful, non-conforming use.

However, the solicitor noted, rather than confront the township in court, his client was willing to work with the municipality and ratepayers to create a trailer park with "taste and dignity," but cautioned that the possibility of taking legal action in the future has not been abandoned.

Airport petition

when they were asked to sign the petition.

Alex Stevenson, a regular observer of Stanhope council meetings, emphasised there had been no mention of a 4000 ft. runway or of trees being cut down when he was asked to sign the petition, adding the plebiscite was necessary "To give the people their say."

He added he was particularly concerned over the cost of maintaining the airport, "After a million dollars has been spent," Reeve Harry Davis repeated council's position that the concerns of the township residents had been a factor in the proposed development, adding, "When we decided not to expand and not to go west of Airport Road, people agreed."

"We are elected to make these decisions. We are the same council that voted thousands of dollars for cross-country trails," he said. Following the heated debate, council passed a resolution acknowledging receipt of the petition but took no further action on the request for the plebiscite.

Man charged with attempted murder

A 46 year old Thamesford area man has been charged with attempted murder following an incident at Ragged Falls in McLintock Township on Monday.

According to Sergeant Bill Bailey of the Minden Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, Michael Paul Lambert and Margaret Elaine Lambert of R.R. 2, Thamesford were returning from a weekend in Algonquin Park when the couple stopped at Ragged Falls on Monday, about 6 p.m.

As they were standing near the falls, Mrs. Lambert ended up in the river and went over the falls. She was able to crawl to the safety of a rock in the middle of the river where she was spotted by an unidentified passer-by. After initial rescue attempts failed, the Minden OPP and Dwight Fire Department were notified. Volunteer firemen and police officers were able to bring the woman to safety after she had spent three hours stranded on the rock.

The 43 year old woman was taken to Huntsville Hospital suffering from numerous bruises, cold and exposure. She was held overnight for observation.

According to the OPP, Michael Lambert was arrested at the scene of the incident by officers of the Minden detachment and charged with attempted murder. The accused is presently being held in Lindsay Jail awaiting a bail hearing.

Constables Bob Pearson and Mike Maher are the investigating officers.

One year term

A Haliburton man has been sentenced to a year in jail following a trial last Wednesday in Minden.

Randy Upton, 18, pleaded guilty to a charge of breaking into the Stanhope Firefighters Hall August 29. Taken in the break in was a quantity of beer and liquor.

Upton was sentenced to six months in jail for the break-in and an additional six months for breaching the conditions of a previous probation order.

Constable Al Bibby was the investigating officer.

Paper boxes

The police are still searching for the individuals responsible for a number of thefts from newspaper boxes in the county. According to the authorities, numerous boxes were rifled during the summer months with the contents of the coin boxes being taken. The Toronto Star boxes located at the Ingoldsbys-Highway 121 turn and at Eagle Lake were broken into on a number of occasions.

Valid points

As is the tradition in local political issues, both sides made some valid points worthy of consideration. We refer to the proposed expansion of the airport facility in Stanhope and the opposition raised by a number of that municipality's residents.

The residents have presented points worth considering when they say the need for improvements costing $800,000 have yet to be justified. They point out that no studies have been carried out to assess the potential use of the airport if the improvements are care carried out. They are right to ask if the money, no matter the source, will be justified by increased traffic volume.

The question of the impact of the improvements on area residents and businesses, something which is unknown at this point but which could be gauged by an in-depth study, is still unanswered. The additional cost of maintaining the improved facility is also not clear.

On the other hand, the Stanhope municipal council is following a responsible course in trying to upgrade the facility. Since it is the only airport in the county, it could be the focal point for future business growth and expansion. It is a part of the infrastructure which could be vital to future industrial growth in the county and, promoted properly, could have an important impact on tourism potential here.

The council is also on firm ground in setting aside the request for a referendum on the airport expansion. Since a municipal election is at hand, voters in Stanhope township will have ample opportunity to hear and participate in debates and discussions.

Those who feel strongly about this issue can make their point by challenging those seeking office or, indeed, stand for election themselves. The council has set out its vision of the township's future. The test of their wisdom will come November 12.

Conquering the tower

I don't want to be branded an alarmist, but I feel it is my duty to warn everyone that the observation tower at Dorset is full of holes.

Earlier this summer, you'll recall this newspaper featured, in the "This Week" section, an article written by Michael Shirley about the one hundred foot high tower. Shortly after the article appeared, I was travelling north with the family and decided this would be a perfect opportunity to visit the tower and take in the view from the top.

jack's world

by editor & publisher Jack Brezina

The kids were a little hesitant about the whole thing, especially after staring up at the tall structure from its base. However, with a little urging from your's truly, we started the long climb to the top.

Now I'm not one who takes to heights easily. I'm a white-knuckle ladder climber who scrambles to the top, gets the job done and doesn't pause to take in the view. While at the top of a ladder, generally all my appendages are entangled on rungs, side supports and anything else solidly connected to Mother Earth.

Then, you ask, what was one such as this doing leading the charge up the Dorset observation tower? It's a question that was to come to mind a number of times that afternoon, although, like flying, and we all know how safe flying us, the tower

If your idea is fishing is leaning back, dropping a line in the water and enjoying your catch for dinner that night, don't go after muskellunge.

Muskie fishing is hard work. It requires patience, stamina and a lot more determination than most of us are prepared to give. Even experienced muskellunge fishermen can take up to 100 hours to hook a muskie, and some anglers have been known to spend years going back for one in particular that got away.

Muskie fishermen readily acknowledge that their fascination for this elusive fish borders on fanatical. Before they even hook one, they keep track of the number of times their lures are hit or followed. When they finally land one, they usually put it back. They keep only exceptionally-sized fish, and only for mounting.

Why do muskie anglers put so much time, effort and hard work into hooking a fish they won't eat and likely won't even keep? Maybe it's the stories of the 50- and 60-pounders that were common 30 years ago, or the prospect of breaking the world's record of almost 70 pounds set in 1957. Whatever the reason, the muskie angler will tell you that when you do hook one of these freshwater giants, there's nothing like it. To these fishermen, landing a muskellunge is the ultimate fishing challenge.

Muskellunge are members of the pike family and, next to the sturgeon, are Canada's largest freshwater fish. The name muskellunge is thought to be derived from an Indian word meaning "deformed pike".

But unlike the pike, which is found around the world, the muskellunge is restricted to eastern North America - from Lake Champlain, the St. Lawrence River and the Great Lakes basin, north to Lake Abitibi, west to Lake of the Woods and south to Iowa and Illinois.

Ontario alone contains an estimated 300 to 500 muskie lakes and rivers. The best-known muskie fisheries in Ontario are found in the St. Lawrence River, parts of Georgian Bay, the Kawartha Lakes, and Eagle and Wabigoon Lakes in northwestern Ontario. The standing world's record for muskellunge came out of the St. Lawrence River in 1957, weighing in at 69.9 pounds.

Slow, sedentary fish by nature, muskies like to lurk in weedy beds close to shore, where there is ample food to satisfy their enormous appetites. Their fierce reputation is due in part to their size, as well as to their long, fang-like teeth and their tendency when hooked to fight on the surface.

seemed to be specially built for the trepidacious knee-knockers like myself. The stairway is enclosed on both sides by a sturdy wire mesh and the space between each step, though open, is relatively small, or so it appeared at the bottom. One other feature that wasn't as obvious at the base was the steps themselves. They are made of a stiff wire mesh, utilitarian, safe, non-slip surface and full of holes.

This aspect of the steps became more evident as we climbed the series of stair runs built within the frame of the tower itself. Looking down, to watch one's step, a climber can't help but realize just how far it was down to the ground. (It is worth noting at this point that the fear of heights does not exist - people are more concerned about the distance between them and the ground than how high they are.)

Halfway up the tower - just about at tree height, there is an observation platform. Despite suggestions from myself, with all traces of panic erased from my voice as I clutched the rail with a vicelike grip, that the view was great at that point and there was no need to go any higher, the kids were now eager to go to the top. Steeling myself, I agreed to continue, even though as we went higher, I was sure the holes in the mesh seemed to grow with each step. The openings appeared to yawn wide, revealing the ever-disappearing earth below.

If I thought the mesh was giving out on me, the biggest test of nerve was yet to come. For most of the climb, the stairway traces its course within the confines of the tower's superstructure. However, since the tower's legs slant inward to the top, the amount of space in which to accommodate the stairway decreases until, surprise, you're walking up steps built on the outside of the tower. Now outside the cocoon of the tower frame, to your left through the mesh is the world in all its diminutive glory, to your right the tower and straight down, yes, well, one really doesn't need to look straight down does one? But one of course does, and through the gauze-thin mesh with its gaping holes, is a long, long way down, the ground.

One thing you'll notice in this final stage is how well worn the hand rail is. Here and there I thought I noticed a fingerprint imbedded in the steel, but I could have been mistaken. These last few flights, and at this level they can be called nothing less than flights of stairs, head, ever upward, to the enclosed cabin at the top of the tower.

Here no mesh floor, glass panels stand guard between you and the ether beyond and overhead a comforting roof. The elation of having conquered the tower provides a rush of satisfaction, finally giving way to the real reason for the climb, the view south, east and west. It's a truly spectacular panorama.

Having drunk our fill of the view, we, the old pros, the tower experts, the fearless climbers, begin our descent. The first step is disconcerting as I step off into thin air, but we've travelled these steps before and glance casually about at the view, the hand still firm on the rail.

The descent seems faster and less harrowing. I see the strain in the faces of those passing on their way up and chuckle a self-satisfied little chuckle of one who has been to hell, or perhaps, heaven and back. At the tree-top platform, I overhear a strained voice suggesting the view was really spectacular at this level and why bother going any higher, and it looks like rain, and etc., etc. I empathize. I'm going down.

The ground never felt firmer when my foot finally touches home. Firm terra firma. The kids are ecstatic with the climb and are feeling their own sense of accomplishment in having conquered the tower. They want to go up again - No, not this time, it looks like rain, and besides, the view is really spectacular at this level.

Muskies: a fisherman's dream

But despite their reputation as big fish, the fact is that large, trophy-size muskellunge are now rare in Canada, and fish approaching world-record size have not been seen for over 20 years.

Fewer trophies

What is happening to the muskellunge? Do world-record sizes still exist? Are they giving way to fishing pressure? How long does it take to grow a 50 - 60 - pound muskie? these and other questions are being looked at by the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources in an effort to better understand what is needed to maintain, and improve, the quality and quantity of Ontario's muskellunge population.

The first step has been establishing criteria for study, says MNR fisheries scientist Dr. John Casselman. "We have been reviewing the muskellunge situation from some time," says Casselman. "In 1982, the ministry formed a committee to produce a prioritized list of research needs for the species. Since the list was developed, several research studies have been initiated that pertain directly to muskie populations."

The committee found that a survey of anglers, fishery workers and biologists showed unanimous agreement on key areas needing study. One of the most important priorities for all groups was the identification and protection of muskie spawning and nursery area requirements - with the goal of starting programs of habitat improvement.

Most groups did not consider fish culture to be high on the list, but signs of self-reproduction in stocked muskie populations have since prompted the ministry to take another look at the importance and implications of stocking muskellunge.

Perhaps the biggest breakthrough in muskellunge research has been in determining just how long it takes for this fish to reach trophy size. While it was once believed that it took only 12 to 18 years, it has now been established that it actually takes from 20 to 30 years.

"The implications of this are enormous," says Casselman. "Rebuilding the quality of the muskie fishery to where it was in the 1950s will take longer than we thought, and will require extra diligence on the part of every muskie fisherman. To get a 30-year-old fish, they've got to put back the 20-year-old ones."

Determining age

The more accurate method of aging muskellunge and pike was developed by Casselman in the 1960s. The usual method uses a fish's scales to determine age. Casselman discovered that on older or slow-growing pike and muskies, the markings on the cleithrum bone - counted in much the same way as rings on a tree stump - were more accurate and reliable in determining age than the scale method. The cleithrum is a large, flat, crescent-shaped bone lying immediately behind the gill opening on each side of the fish, supporting the front fins.

Dr. Ed Crossman of the Royal Ontario Museum (ROM) has worked closely with Casselman for over six years on what they call The Cleithrum Project. "After establishing that the cleithrum bone is a reliable indicator of age, as well as other biological data, we decided to create a research repository at the museum for muskie and pike cleithra," says Crossman. The joint study was initiated by MNR and the ROM in 1979.

With some funding from the museum and the Muskies Canada organization, and the help of volunteers, Crossman and Casselman asked anglers and taxidermists in Canada and the U.S. to clean and send in cleithrum bones from muskies and pike. "We can't find out more than age from this bone. It allows us to determine the rate of growth of the fish, size at different ages, sex based on growth rate and whether the fish is a muskie or a muskie/pike hybrid," Crossman says.

Kits containing special mailing envelopes and illustrated instructions for bone removal have been sent to muskie clubs and hundreds of taxidermists across North America. A cleithrum bone can easily be removed by a taxidermist without destroying the appearance of the fish for mounting. The senders are also requested to provide specific information such as length, girth, sex, date and location of capture.

"We acknowledge receipt of the bones and always notify the senders of the age of their fish," says Crossman. "The response has been excellent although we're still getting far more from Wisconsin than we are from Ontario. We'd like to see more Ontario taxidermists and anglers getting involved in the project." Crossman says interest in the project has been expressed from as far away as Europe and England.

A museum volunteer is working on a computer program for the Cleithrum Project data, which will summarize biological information for muskellunge populations across North America.

"We're finding out a lot of things about muskie distribution that we didn't know before," says Crossman. "The information will be valuable in determining the direction of muskellunge management programs in the future."

Ironically, Casselman says one of the biggest things muskies have going for them are the muskie fishermen themselves. "Through their support of the Cleithrum Project, as well as their involvement in other surveys and projects, organizations like Muskies Canada and the U.S. Muskies Inc. have been invaluable sources of data for us," he says. "There is no doubt that muskie fishermen are a special breed. They have a genuine concern for the species and will assist in whatever way they can to maintain muskellunge populations."

This concern and co-operation is also evident in the concept of catch and release promoted by muskie fishermen everywhere. Although the muskellunge is a good eating fish, most muskie anglers would rather release a fish than eat it. They keep only trophy-size fish, usually at least 40 inches in length, that they wish to mount. "Catch and release is the best method of reducing pressure on muskie populations, without curtailing angling opportunities," says Casselman.

That's good news for the next generation of muskie fishermen who otherwise might eventually come to regard those stories of 70 - pounders as being closer to fiction than fact.

Legion marks anniversary

In a colourful ceremony marking the Diamond Jubilee of the Royal Canadian Legion, members of Branch 129 and invited guests took part in the Dedication of the Articles of Faith in Haliburton on Sunday.

Following a parade and morning service at Haliburton United Church, thirty members of the branch were awarded Diamond Jubilee medals for their outstanding contributions to the community.

In an address to the assembly, Master of Ceremonies, Gerald Irish noted that in the past sixty

Haliburton run raises $1600 for Terry

They ran, jogged, walked and rode bicycles and by the time the sixty participants in the Terry Fox Run finished the ten kilometre course on Sunday, they had raised $1600 for cancer research.

The fifth annual Terry Fox Marathon of Hope was blessed by warm temperatures and sunny skies as the participants, with the help of twelve volunteer organizers, traced a route from the government dock on Head Lake to the Haliburton Highlands Golf Course then back to the village of Haliburton.

Lisa Larter of Haliburton collected $208 in pledges, more than any other participant.

Although the event is not promoted as a race, organizers record the times of the runners and cyclists.

First across the finish line, riding a bicycle was Craig Smith of Minden with a time of 24 minutes 18 seconds.

Colin Sisson of Haliburton finished a close second with a time of 24:25.

Gary Brohman of Haliburton was the first runner to cross the finish line, covering the distance in 45:44. Peter Lerpiniere of Fenelon Falls finished a scant three seconds behind the leader in a time of 45:47.

Both Brohman and Lerpiniere are teachers at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

When the first Marathon of Hope was held in Haliburton in 1982, over 250 people raised nearly $6,000.

Public interest has dwindled since then as total pledges dropped each year and less runners took part,

At the sound of the starter's pistol, runners set out on the ten kilometre Terry Fox run on Sunday from the government dock in Haliburton. The sixty people who took part in the fifth annual Marathon of Hope, raised $1600, towards cancer research.

but it appears this decline has ended.

There were the same number of runners, cyclists and walkers this year as there was in 1984 and the total pledges and donations exceeded last year's figure by $100.

An estimated $4,000,000 was raised by the more than 300,000 participants in this year's Terry Fox Run across the country.

More deer tags for fall hunt

The number of validation tags sent to deer hunters in Ontario this year has increased by almost one third over 1984, Natural Resources Minister Vincent Kerrio said recently.

More than 36,700 deer hunting validation tags were mailed to sportsmen across the province on September 3.

"The increase in tags issued corresponds to the increasing number of deer in Ontario," Mr. Kerrio said. "The growth in deer herds can be attributed to moderate winters, as well as to our selective deer harvest program now in its sixth year."

The validation tags are issued annually by the Ministry of Natural Resources to control the number of antlerless deer - females and fawns - taken during the season. MNR allocates the tags on the basis of a random draw, held this year on August 23.

Provincially, a hunter had a better than 50 per cent chance of receiving a tag in 1985. The number of tags issued to hunters in the traditional central Ontario deer range was up nearly 60 per cent.

"The fact that 68,697 hunters entered this year's draw - an increase of 8,775 applicants over 1984 - indicates the continued popularity of deer hunting as an outdoor recreation activity," the Minister said.

Water level report

On September 9, the stored water in the Haliburton lakes averaged 65.3% which was up about 4% from the September 3 reading. This resulted from rain which was much heavier around the Balsam Lake area than in Haliburton. The heaviest rain was about 90 mm in 24 hours in that area.

The huge surplus generated by this condition caused closure of nearly all the navigation locks of the Trent-Severn Waterways. Otonabee River discharge increased more than ten times to about 230 cubic metres at peak to stop the rise of the Kawarthas. Several of them reached nearly 30 cm (1 foot) before they peaked.

Next week (beginning September 15) the last of the surplus should be discharged and flows of the Trent and Otonabee Rivers can be reduced to safe navigation limits. Some surplus reserve water will be discharged as well so that further rains are less likely to create another large surplus. Drawdowns for fall spawning fish will continue on the three special lakes of the Gull watershed; namely Kushog, Little Bob and Big Bob.

New policy would close ice fishing on four lakes

In an effort to improve the supply of naturally reproducing lake trout in a number of county lakes, the Ministry of Natural Resources has announced that winter fishing will be closed on those particular bodies of water starting in 1987. While the ministry is holding public meetings, seeking input, the policy appears to be all but a certainty.

One of those public meetings was held in Haliburton Saturday. Representatives of the ministry and a number of interested anglers were in attendance to hear about the proposals.

According to the ministry plans, winter fishing on Drag Lake in Dysart Township, Stocking Lake in Havelock Township, Clear and Red Pine lakes in Sherborne Township will be closed to winter fishing in 1987.

The proposed policy drew a number of questions from fishermen attending the meeting. In justifying the action, the MNR officials said the lakes to be closed to winter fishing all have strong naturally reproducing stocks of lake trout. However, the winter fishing is taking its toll on their number and the officials felt this was the best way to protect the existing stock.

The ministry officials also suggested that increased stocking of adjacent lakes will add to the fishing potential in the county which will be lost by the closure of the four lakes.

Included in this latest policy initiative was a number of changes to the open seasons in the newly enlarged fish management region, covering the entire Algonquin administrative region outside of Algonquin Park. The proposals include:

- Walleye (Yellow Pickerel): open from the third Saturday in May to March 31.

- Northern Pike: open third Saturday in May to March 31.

- Smallmouth and largemouth bass: last Saturday in June to November 30.

- Brook (Speckled) trout: January 1 to September 30.

- Brown and Lake trout and Splake: January 1 to September 30.

- Rainbow trout: all year.

- Muskellunge: first Saturday in June to November 30.

The new fishing division will reduce the number within the Algonquin region from eight to three and should, according to the MNR, provide a simpler schedule for anglers to follow.

"The thirteen lakes in the region which have a high potential to maintain the valuable Lake Trout species on a naturally reproducing, self-sustaining basis, have been selected as candidates for special management treatment," a ministry spokesman said. "Lake trout in these lakes would be given additional protection by limiting the angling season through a winter closure."

Rehabilitation

In a separate announcement, the ministry has made public plans for a spawning bed rehabilitation program on selected waterbodies in the Minden district. According to the ministry announcement, "The improvements planned include the cleaning of silted areas by the use of a high pressure water pump and the current created by the

"wash" of an outboard motor, the addition of rock rubble to shallow water areas, the placement of large rocks or cement blocks in fast flowing Walleye spawning areas to provide resting sites, and the removal of beaver dams or fallen trees and obstacles hindering the access of fish to spawning areas."

The lakes to be included in the rehabilitation program for walleye are: Blue Hawk Lake, Dysart; Drag River, Dysart; Four Mile Lake Somerville; Head Lake and Head River, Laxton; Kashagawigamog, Minden and Dysart; Loon (Dudman) Dudley/Monmouth; Shadow, Somerville; Soyer, Minden.

Lake trout habitat improvement will take place on the following lakes: Beech, Stanhope; Crystal, Galway; Davis, Lutterworth; Kashagawigamog, Minden/Dysart; Kushog, Stanhope; Loon (Dudman), Dudley/Monmouth; Maple Stanhope; Soyers, Minden; Twelve Mile, Minden.

Spot the Shot

Well, here we are at the end of the line...the answer to Spot the Shot contest number ten and the last for this season. We're glad to see that so many readers enjoyed our weekly challenge once again this year. Your comments, along with the entries, as always, are welcome and encouraging. For example, Diane Cowen of Minden, noted on her latest entry, "I have enjoyed your contest very much as it has been very challenging. Keep up the good work. Looking forward to next year." And Lorna Hicks, who has been a regular for a number of years, (and who we might add, tends to the poetic like the Byway Bard) added this note: "Thanks go to editor Jack, Who keeps us out along the track, Viewing all the beautiful spots, Trying to find his mystery shots. Saw lakes, roads, dams now Horseshoe bridge too, We'll be back next summer, ready for you." One of the more colourful entries of this year came from Susan Lehan of Columbus, Ontario (She has a cottage on Moore Lake), who included this drawing with her entry for contest number ten.

And then we have the Byway Bard who penned the following farewell ditty:

I don't know why the Bard can't win
When he has correctly identified nine of ten,
Of the bridges pictured in this year's game,
No exception this week...Mitchell's Bridge is the name,
But I hope next year, with the contest's return
The rules will be changed, and a prize I can earn.

The Byway Bard.

Actually the Byway Bard would be eligible for a prize if we knew who it was and where we should send the prize. Alas, the peripatetic poet prefers to pose behind a pseudonym and therefore automatically cancels his chances.

An now, down to the business at hand. The winning entry for our final contest, chosen at random from all the correct ones received, was submitted by Mrs. Merriett McNeil of Minden. Mrs. McNeil correctly identified the Mitchell Bridge, just above the Minden Wild Water Preserve on the Bethel Road. She receives a $25.00 gift certificate redeemable at any of the businesses featured on the Fine Dining or Pot Pourri pages of This Week/Month in the Highlands. Congratulations to her and everyone else who entered. Thanks to everyone who helped make this the best year ever for our Spot the Shot contest. And yes, we will be back next summer with more fun and games. We'll see you then.

Exciting finish to grid iron curtain raisers

Last minute scoring drives were the key factors in the opening games of the football season as the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Senior and Junior Redmen hosted the Fenelon Falls Falcons on Friday.

The Senior Redmen captured an exciting 15-8 victory in overtime while their junior counterparts lost 15-6 following a touchdown in the final minute of play.

In the Senior game, the teams were unable to score in the first quarter. The Redmen came close on a field goal attempt by Alex Little but the kick was blocked by a Falcons player.

In the second quarter, the Redmen went ahead 6-0 on a TD by Paul Allore, that was the result of strong running plays by Mike McNaull and Jeff Bain and the passing plays between quarterback Trevor Powers and receiver Gary Vanderstarren. Haliburton missed the convert so the score remained 6-0 until Fenelon Falls kicked a single point to end the half.

The third quarter remained scoreless with both teams making mental errors and losing ground on infractions.

Early in the fourth quarter, the Falcons went ahead 7-6 on a perfect 25 yard pass into the end zone but the convert attempt was missed. Late in the quarter

Alex Little kicked a field goal to tie the game.

The score remained 7-7 when regulation time ended.

Fenelon Falls won the coin toss and elected to receive at the beginning of the two seven and a half minute overtime periods.

After the punt, the Falcons moved downfield and kicked a field goal to go ahead for the second time in the game. Undaunted, the Redmen fought back and with less than three minutes left in overtime, Tom MacLeod recovered the ball on the Falcon's 35 yard line after blocking a punt.

Quarterback Trevor Powers then engineered a scoring drive that saw Jeff Bain, Peter Allore, Mike McNaull and Paul Allore carry the ball to the two yard line.

With first and goal to go, Peter Allore carried the ball over the top for the TD.

The successful conversion to Peter Allore gave the Redmen the 15-8 win when the overtime clock ran out.

Coach Gary Brohman singled out the strong defensive work of Daryl Ward, Greg Pearson, Andrew Burk and Tom MacLeod and the offensive talents guards Craig Burk and Sean Allore as key elements in the team's win.

The game between the Junior Redmen and the Junior Falcons was an evenly matched contest until the dying seconds when Fenelon Falls put the game out of reach.

When the whistle sounded to end the first half, neither team had been able to score. The Falcons had a couple of chances to score on field goals in both quarters but the Redmen defence, led by Brad Archer, Derek Little, Allan Rydman and Craig Crowe nullified the Falcon's offensive plays.

Fenelon Falls scored early in the third quarter to take a 7-0 lead and held the margin until midway through the fourth quarter. After Redman Ron Perrin kicked from the Falcon's 35 yard line, the ball was fumbled by a Fenelon Falls player and recovered by Brad Archer.

Ted Paish narrowed the score on a successful quarterback sneak, but the two point conversion attempt from Paish to Perrin was unsuccessful.

With less than a minute remaining, the Falcons scored a touchdown and got the two point conversion to win the game 15-6.

Coach Gary Brohman cited the good running game of Drew Mitchell and Craig Crowe as well as the strong two way effort of Ron Perrin in the team's showing.

Mike MacNaull finds himself surrounded by Fenelon Falls players as he is hauled down in the Redmen senior game played Friday at Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. Moments later the home team scored their first touchdown enroute to a 15-8 victory.

On Friday, September 20, the Redmen will be on the road against the Brock Bulldogs. The Bulldogs have been impressive in their season openers with the Seniors winning handily against I.E. Weldon and the Juniors keeping up a 56-0 victory against their Lindsay rivals.

Lawn bowlers challenge the Beaverbrook links

(submitted)

Well, here it is September. The tourists are dropping out, the cottagers have returned to their big city homes. But the Minden Lawn Bowlers are just getting their second wind and to prove it, they held their annual golf fun day at Beaverbrook Golf course Tuesday, September 10.

Despite the threat of poor weather, some thirty "odd" members of the Geritol set sallied forth to do battle with a small ball, a wet turf and even smaller hole in the centre of lush greens. Using assorted weapons they attacked the course like Atilla the Hun and when the grass and divots all settled back, these were the victors.

The organizers of the whole affair, golf, prizes, meal - are to be commended for their successful efforts. The next event is the club bowling championship and annual dinner, October 9.

Strong opening for HHSS kickers

The two Haliburton Highlands soccer teams opened the season with a strong showing this past week. The Juniors came away with a 1-1 tie against their counterparts from I.E. Weldon from Lindsay, while the seniors managed to shut out the opposition by a 2-0 margin.

Colin McKnight scored the Junior's goal with the assist going to Derek Allison.

Coach Bob Penfold described the game as one of the best openers the team has had in the past few years. In particular he credited the strong play of David Arnot in goal and Chris Coumbs on defence for the team's performance.

The Senior goals were scored by Lennie Johnston, with the assist going to Lasse Roslind. Lasse is a Rotary Exchange student from Denmark. The second Haliburton High marker came from Tom Eager with Bill Wulleme getting the assist.

The two teams take on Lindsay Collegiate and Vocational Institute today (September 18) at the Haliburton pitch. A third set of home games is scheduled for September 25 when the teams meet Fenelon Falls.

On both days the games start with the junior match at 2 p.m.

A Weldon soccer player find himself surrounded by HHSS Redmen as he pursues the ball during the senior game Wednesday afternoon. The Redmen, defeated the visitors by a convincing 2-1 score. HHSS players with their eyes on the ball, include, from the left, Rob Thibadeau, Mark Carl, Eoin Ross and Paul Milne.

Milk fever is preventable

- Ag report -

Milk fever is one of the most destructive conditions affecting dairy cows and unfortunately, it is one of the most prevalent conditions of early lactation. You will notice that I have avoided the term "disease" when referring to milk fever. It is not a disease, it is a condition and fortunately, it is totally preventable.

Preventing milk fever not only makes you money by increasing milk production, it saves you money because the key is in less expensive feeding of the dry cow.

The first step is to separate dry and milking cows. If your dry cows and bred heifers are getting the same feed as your milking cows, you are going to have to milk fever. A 600 kg dry cow during the final stages of gestation requires 44 gms of Ca per day. 30 lbs of good alfalfa hay provides 180 gams or more of calcium. Research tells us that consumption of more than 100 gams of Ca per day can increase the incidence of milk fever. So, the second step is to feed grass hay or straw to dry cows.

The third part of the picture is to keep Ca and P in balance. The total ration should contain Ca and P in a ratio of 1.4:1 up to 2:1, remembering to stay below 100 g of daily intake of Ca. Some producers feel all Phosphate supplements to try to balance a legume hay. This is the wrong thing to do because the calcium is already too high, and excess P can tie up the Vitamin D which is necessary to mobilize Calcium from the tissues. The result will be more, not less, milk fever. So what can the dairyman do to prevent milk fever?

1. Separate the dry cows and heifers from the milking herd and feed them differently.

2. Test all feeds, including straw and don't neglect the value of low quality feeds in feeding dry cows.

3. Balance the dry cow ration according to actual intake of actual feeds and rebalance every time you change the feed.

4. Follow a challenge feeding program during the early part of the lactation.

You will be rewarded for this by lower veterinarian bills, higher milk cheques and lower maintenance costs.

Leadership camp

The Ontario leadership centre at Bark Lake in Haliburton County was the setting for Provincial Junior Farmer Leadership Camp from August 31 - September 7. Ninety-two junior farmers from all across Ontario participated in this intensive leadership training program.

The purpose of the week-long program was to develop leadership skills as well as learning how to work with fellow members and other people in the community, in an organization such as junior farmers or the many other organizations in which participants are active. Each individual also had the opportunity for personal development.

Daily themes included fellowship, enthusiasm, leadership, teamwork, responsibility, confidence and achievement. The isolation of Bark Lake provided an ideal environment for delegates to have learning experiences in each of these areas, as well as creating close bonds of friendship which hopefully will last a lifetime.

Roseanne Peeters of R.R. 4, Omeme represented Victoria County at Provincial Camp. Roseanne is a members of the Kawartha Junior Farmers Club and is active on the Victoria County Executive. Her challenger now is to bring her newfound knowledge and junior farmer spirit back to local activities and her community.

Church will mark sixtieth

This year is the sixtieth anniversary of the United Church of Canada. The union of Methodists and Presbyterians took place in 1925. However in Minden these two congregations had joined together many years before nationwide union.

The cornerstone of the new church was laid in 1925 and the dedication was held on Sunday, January 17, 1926. Rev. William Parker was the minister.

To commemorate these anniversaries the Minden United Church will be having a special service on Thanksgiving Sunday, October 13 at 11:00 a.m. The Right Reverend Dr. Clarke McDonald, former moderator will be the preacher. Special music is being planned and the church will be decorated for Thanksgiving.

After the service a social hour will be enjoyed in the Sunday School hall. All are invited to attend.

Legion backs Army Cadet Corps

Haliburton County could be the home of Canada's newest Army Cadet Corps if 40 interested teenagers can be found to join the organization. An information meeting on the formation of the corps was held Thursday evening at Branch 129, Royal Canadian Legion in Haliburton.

Two representatives of the Royal Canadian Army Cadets, Peter Krisjansen, general manager of the Army Cadets, and Brigadier - General B. Forbes of the Cadet League of Ontario, were in attendance to explain what was required to form and operate a corps in the area. They outlined what the participants in the corps would be involved in and what would be required of the sponsoring body.

The local Legion branch has already agreed to provide the necessary funding to support the annual operation of the corps. The Legion building would be used as a training centre for the cadets who would meet once a week from September to June.

As Brigadier General West pointed out during his remarks, the Cadet Corps is not meant as the first step to a career in the armed services. "The aim of the organization is to produce good citizens," he said, "using military training methods." He noted that many cadets do advance to the armed services or the militia, but that was neither a requirement nor an expectation of those taking part in the Cadet program.

Peter Krisjansen explained there were 108 cadet corps in the province with some 8000 members. Some 2000 of these cadets were female, he noted. "We strive to promote good citizenship, leadership, physical fitness and interest in the Canadian Armed Forces among our youth," he told the audience.

He told the audience that youths between the ages of 13 and 18 were welcome to join the corps. During the weekly meetings, which usually last two hours, the cadets learn a variety of subjects including military drill, dress and deportment, first aid, physical fitness, map use, rifle safety, range safety, field craft, survival training, search and rescue techniques, citizenship and other areas of interest. The subjects are taught by the cadet instructors, four adults who are in charge of the local corps. As well, individuals with special knowledge are invited to take part in the instruction sessions, giving the cadets training in specialised areas.

In addition to the weekly meetings, cadet corps may undertake weekend outings. These could include visits to military installations in southern Ontario, trips to Ottawa or field trips organized by the local corps.

Krisjansen noted that while the Canadian Armed Forces supplies funding, material support and assistance to the corps, they operate as a totally separate organization from the military.

The cadets also have the option of attending summer camps sponsored by the corps and the armed services. These camps provide two to six week stays at Ipperwash, near Grand Bend, Ontario, where the cadets participate in a more intensive training program and the usual schedule of summer camp activities such as swimming, sports, camping and canoe tripping.

Senior cadets may also be invited to attend specialized camps across the country where they can learn mountaineering, parachute jumping or Arctic indoctrination.

All of the camping activities are funded by the Armed Forces.

Members of the cadet corps are expected to wear the Army Cadet uniform which is provided free of charge.

While there appeared to be more interested adults at the Thursday meeting than potential cadets, the enthusiasm of those in attendance was obvious. Legion president Joan Irish felt there would be little problem in attracting the necessary young people to form a corps. She told the audience that a survey carried out several years ago indicated some 70 teenagers would be interested in the program.

Krisjansen told the meeting that a minimum of 30 active cadets would be needed to sustain a separate corps and therefore his organization would like to see a commitment from about 40 young people, to allow for those who might lose interest, before beginning registration of the new corps. He suggested, however, that the Haliburton group could begin operation sooner if they were willing to start under the auspices of the Lindsay Corps. He pointed out this would mean they could get an earlier start, with less than the requisite number, and draw on the expertise established by the Lindsay Corps.

While no decision was taken on which route to follow, the interest in the corps in the Highlands is high, particularly among the sponsoring body and leaders. An effort is now underway to attract as many 13 to 18 year olds as possible to take part in the organization.

Anyone interested in more information about the Haliburton Army Cadet Corps should contact Joan Irish at 457-2346 or Jim Tice at 457-2571.

I WILL BE A CANDIDATE FOR THE POSITION OF REEVE.

THE RISING COST OF EDUCATION

In a small community like ours it is easy to understand how an issue concerning education can be as delicate as it is. Teachers and administrators are not anonymous. They care for the learning of our children and are at close range with us every day of the week. When not in our schools they meet with us in church, or buy from us in stores, or our families share Saturday evenings together. This familiarity can blunt our opinions on education issues in ways that metropolitan residents would not be able to understand. At no time is this more obvious than when the subject of rising education costs and local taxes comes up. You may then appreciate how much more delicate that issue becomes in a home like ours where a teacher/administrator and municipal councillor both reside.

This year education costs will consume 63 cents from every tax dollar received in AHM Townships. Put another way, for every dollar in local taxes spent on our schools, the municipality will spend 15 cents in local taxes on our roads, 8 cents on our parks and recreation facilities, and less than 2 cents on social services. The trend over the past ten years is frightening. Education cost increases are rocketing past general municipal budget increases at alarming rates. The increase for 1985 is more than four times that of its municipal counterpart.

Plainly there are reasons for this that are beyond our immediate control. The Board points to shrinking enrolment in the County (which lowers subsidies), and Provincial grants that are not keeping up with costs. Local and Ontario records back to 1977 do support such concerns. Provincial enrolment is on the decline, but our student population is sagging at a rate that is 30% worse. Then too, the average Board budget in Ontario was able to meet 7% more of its costs with grants than our own Board was able to manage.

Even those costs that are negotiated locally are indirectly controlled by Provincial guidelines. Wages and salaries form just under 70% of our Board's budget. The average Ontario Board allows almost 80% for the same items. Following the same comparison, the average local elementary level salary has risen 74% in the past five years whereas the Provincial average is 80%. At the secondary level the local increase has been 58% compared to almost 70% across the Province. In the same period of time local increases to the mean teaching salary have averaged 11.5% each year. That is not an indicator of individual salary increment but rather of the impact of all salaries and wages on the Board's budget once local settlements are affected by the Provincial salary grid and its own special logic. For instance, despite local settlements that have been generally within Provincial norms instructional costs have risen from a little over three million dollars in 1979 to five and one quarter million dollars in 1984. Finally, transportation costs have been the most dramatic factor in cost increases. In 1979 they totalled $561,000. Five years later they have almost doubled to more than one million dollars.

I draw several conclusions from all this. First, traditional Board bashing during May's budget-days must give way to energetic and year-long lobbying at Queen's Park by County Council and the local Board. The Association of Municipalities of Ontario (AMO) is also a forum that should be pursued. Unfortunately our Municipality is not a member despite two motions to that effect from this councillor over the past two years. AMO is a substantial influence on the Cabinet ... for instance it is likely recent AMO objections to liquor sales in corner stores will persuade Mr. Peterson to completely rethink his stand on that issue. I also think The Federation of Ontario Cottage Associations (FOCA) should be included in all lobbying activities. This County must be recognized by the Ministry as having a unique tax base and demographic problems that require special consideration for Provincial cost support.

Second, the impact of salary and wage settlements together with Provincial increment guidelines have been too much of a burden for this County to bear. In the mid seventies an intention was announced to bring this County's salary scale from the bottom of the heap to a position closer to the Provincial average. I do not think our County's financial position and student population warrant us to be at or even near the Provincial average. Ministry funding discriminates against us according to specific factors of enrolment. On the same basis local taxpayers should not be expected to provide the difference to keep their teachers and administrators at an average parity with the rest of the Province when most other factors place us in the bottom 10%.

Third, trustees should be regularly invited to meetings of Council. The same ratepayer pressure that results in Municipal budget increases of 4% or less must be passed along to the Board of Education. Questions pertaining to such items as school bus costs that double in five years should become routine inquiry by local Councils. I do not argue against the importance of education to our community's future, but when it threatens to devour two-thirds of our tax base the delicacy of involving those close to us in the debate becomes much less relevant.

Stanhope passes on Hydro dam study

A proposed study into the feasibility of constructing a hydro-electric facility at Buttermilk Falls will not be carried out following a decision by Stanhope Municipal council.

Concerns that the proposed generating station would destroy the scenic beauty of the popular tourist attraction as well as concerns over construction costs, and doubtful market for the hydro power, prompted the council's decision.

Council was informed that 90% of the costs of the study would be covered by the Ministry of Energy and the remainder by the SNC group.

Although council had some reservations, they approved the proposal. In July, council was informed the Ministry of Energy had agreed to fund $22,500 of the estimated costs of the study. Council appeared ready to approve the study, but reservations were expressed by Mr. Bev.

Robinson, a member of the Boshkung Lake Cottagers Association.

Mr. Robinson, a physicist who has been employed as an engineer by Ontario Hydro, said he was concerned about the impact the proposed generating station would have on the site if the water had to be directed through a pipe from the head of the dam to the turbine. He noted also that Ontario Hydro had no need for small generating stations.

In response to these concerns, council asked Robinson to carry out a private review of the proposed study.

At the regular meeting of council in August, clerk-treasurer Gerald Bain reported to council he had received letters from Mr. Robinson and the SNC group that appeared contradictory. Whereas Mr. Robinson had indicated the SNC group would probably not proceed with the study because of council's determination not to radically alter the Buttermilk Falls site, a representative of the SNC group said the company was ready to proceed.

This past Wednesday, a letter from Ian Rowe, vice-president and general manager of the SNC group was read to council proposing a continuation of the feasibility study and suggesting that Mr. Robinson continue to be involved "in an arm's length" capacity.

The clerk-treasurer told council he had been informed the facility could cost an estimated $875,000 and that private funding was available or the municipality could finance the construction costs. Reeve Harry Davis expressed concerns that although Ontario Hydro might purchase electric power generated at the site in the near future there was not guarantee there would always be a market for the electricity. "If they (Ontario Hydro) have enough power of their own, where are we going to sell it?" he asked.

Councillor Elvin Johnson agreed noting Ontario Hydro has recently shut down a Hydro generating station because it was not needed. Summing up the feelings of other council members he noted, "If we lose water between the dam and the power house as it passes through a pipe, we will lose one of the most attractive sites in the township."

Council decided to turn down the proposed study and asked the clerk-treasurer to inform the SNC group of their decision.

Drivers reminded of bus rules

The return to school of over 1800 students earlier this month has also seen the return to county roads of numerous school buses. Police officials have expressed concern that drivers may be unfamiliar with the procedures to be followed when meeting a school bus which has stopped with its warning lights flashing. When the lights are activated, it is a warning that the bus is picking up or discharging passengers.

Community Services Officer, Constable Gary Chapman, has provided the following interpretation of the laws regarding the operation of motor vehicles sharing the roadway with school buses.

When you're driving on a road and you see a school bus you should be alert and be prepared to stop if necessary. The law in regard to both meeting and overtaking a school bus reads as follows:

A. Every driver meeting a stopped school bus that has its red signal lights flashing shall stop before reaching the school bus and shall not proceed until the school bus moves or the signal lights have stopped flashing.

B. Every driver when overtaking a stopped school bus that has its red signal lights flashing shall stop at least 20 metres (66 feet) before reaching the school bus and shall not proceed until the school bus moves or the signal lights have stopped flashing.

The minimal fine for disobeying these laws is $100. More importantly, disregarding a school bus passing law could result in harm to a school age child.

Note to parents

If you have youngsters who are attending school for the first year, you are naturally concerned for their personal safety. If you wait for the return of your child's school bus in the afternoon, it is very important you do not wait on the opposite side of the roadway. Tragic accidents have occurred when a child, anxious to show a parent something from school, dashes across the road.

New directors needed for snowmobile club

submitted

Well, here it is that time of year when we start to put our summer toys away and start thinking about our winter toys.

This summer has not been as good as one would like, with cold spring nights and lots of rain as of late.

I see the squirrels are busy, so maybe, just maybe, we will have a good winter, lots of snow. Snow brings to mind another season of snowmobiling. To snowmobile we need trails and to make these trails we need expensive equipment and manual help.

We also need a snowmobile club to organize and operate this equipment. The H.C.S.A. is your snowmobile club, of which every member is a part.

The executive of the HCSA is comprised of 13 voting directors and 6 'directors at large'. The amount of work these people have to do is tremendous.

Just like any good machine, we directors are getting tired. WE NEED NEW BLOOD IN THE EXECUTIVE.

If you are an avid snowmobiler and enjoy the sport, can give a few hours of your time, please come to the general meeting on Saturday, September 21. This meeting will be held at the Minden Fire Hall at 8:00 p.m.

Remember! Don't ask what your snowmobile club can do for you - ask what you can do for your snowmobile club.

Hoping to see you at the general meeting September 21 for your ideas and share refreshments with us.

Leroy Lichty,
President, HCSA.

Branch 129 news

On Tuesday, September 24 at 7 p.m. your legion is having an Associates Dinner. All associate members and their spouses are invited as the guests of Branch 129.

Please sign up for this on the sheet on the bulletin board in the club room. Our guest speaker will have a special message of interest to associate members.

A good crowd showed up for a meeting about starting Legion Cadets in Haliburton. Mr. Krisjansen and Brigadier General Forbes West were the guest speakers. Both gentlemen work out of the Army Cadets' offices. Applications for cadets will be distributed soon.

The Club Room was so packed on Friday night that extra chairs had to be brought in as the Wednesday night dart group hosted a wine and cheese party in honour of our visitors from England, Peter and Wanda Wilson.

On Sunday the Legion was a beehive of activity. The day started off with a parade to the United Church. Diamond Jubilee medals were presented to various Legion members and we dedicated our Legion Articles of Faith.

The Family picnic, beef barbeque and horseshoe tournaments were well attended.

Don't forget the dance and beef draw at the legion this coming Saturday night. Enjoy the music of Cimerron.

Dear Readers: Our maintenance men at Hyland Crest must be proud of the lovely grounds at Hyland Crest. They work away, day after day, giving of their best, weeding and watering flowers, trimming hedges, cutting lawns and looking after plumbing within. Our cleaners working day after day to keep it spotless within and they do it all with a grin.

Saturday afternoon we watched an interesting movie to keep us entertained and watched another one this afternoon again. The weather hasn't been too pleasant, not very many relatives came to call. A little more pleasant weather would be enjoyed by all.

Lilly Hogg's niece Linda came to call on her this Saturday. Linda and her husband have a cottage up Paint Lake way. We have a dear lady, who lives next door. With her we can't keep track. She is either going out somewhere or just coming back.

A real interesting service in the Chapel Sunday night. Quite a number there. Ruth Thompson played the music, led the singing, read the lesson, and Mary Burgess led in prayer. Then Rev. Burgess took over when it was his time. He always has a message for us that is really fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Steel called on me today. We were great friends when we lived down Glenarm way. It is good to have Doris Robertson back from a two week holiday. Linda kept us quite active, while her sister was away.

Congratulations and very best wishes we would like to say to Mrs. Isabel Eastman, who is 96 years young on this 9th September day. Linda showed us movies Monday night, which were interesting to see: "The Spirit Algonquin," "Song of the Mountains," "The Ride and Sahara Fantasy."

Tuesday morning Mr. Gordon Sharpless conducted a very interesting service in the chapel this September day for Rev. Wicks of Minden Gospel Church, who is on holiday. We thank him for coming and Fred Ballard the music to play. Then Linda read to us from 12:45 until 2:00. Then we went down to the Craft Room to play the quiz game and see what we could do and have some fun. We were on the B team and this time we won.

Ada Allcorn had her niece, Gwen, call on her one day. After a busy summer Darryl Crowe came back to us Tuesday night to play and sing some good old songs, and do the job just right. We thank you for coming, Darryl, and we look forward when it is time for you to come back again. The Rickie Danilko's are filled with glee. They have added a branch to the family tree. They are real happy and filled with joy for they have a dear baby boy.

Wednesday morning down at Fun and Fitness playing the game "Bull's Eye" as we often played before. Millie Wood made a perfect score. Wednesday night Kathy Owens and Earl Cooper came back to us again. Now here's a couple who know how to entertain. We thank them for coming - please come back again.

Thursday afternoon the ladies of the Kinmount Legion came back to us again this 12th September day. They brought and served a lovely lunch - to thank them in some small way Doris and I some music for them did play.

You know Fern Donnelly is a dear. Friday mornings she comes to help Doris with Fun and Fitness when Linda isn't here. Teddy Carr's daughter, who lives down Pickering way came to visit her father just the other day.

Our entertainers came again this 13th September day. Grace to lead us in a sing-a-long, read some humorous poems, sing a few numbers which we enjoy so much. Norma played the music - she really has the touch. Then Doris read to us from 3:30 until 5:00 which was just fine, just in time for us to sit down to dine. Friday night Payne, Deacon and Smith came back to us after the summer break. They entertained us royally - fine music they do make, with Payne and Deacon playing the guitars and Smith on the violin. We look forward to when they come again.

Did you know...that the Family Violence Prevention Program of the Ontario Ministry of Community and Social Services has compiled a "Compendium of Services for Battered Women in Ontario"?

There is great concern for the plight of the women assaulted in the home, and a recognized need to make people aware of the services that exist to help them.

As part of the government's initiatives to respond to this problem, this compendium has been designed, not only as a source of information and referral for professionals who work with battered women, but also to be of use to the battered woman herself who may have access to it in such agencies as the Haliburton County Information Centre.

The focus of the compendium is on services specifically for battered women. Some serve primarily the battered women; for example, the network of transition houses and family resource centres that provide shelter to her and her children.

Other community services serve a broad range of clients: counselling services, information centres, medical and legal clinics.

There is a third group of services that also serve the battered woman: the police, welfare offices, and hospital emergency rooms. This third group has been included when they identified a special service such as domestic response teams.

While groups for men who batter may not be considered a "service for battered women" these groups provide an important service in the prevention of further abuse, and therefore are listed in the compendium under "Counselling for men".

If you would like further information on this subject, drop in or give us a call at 457-2733 between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays. Our office is located in the Drag River Municipal building in Haliburton.

Remember...we are here to help all people of all ages and all inquiries are confidential.

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down, forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off in the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Q: Which can move faster, heat or cold?

A: Heat, because you can catch cold.

Q: Which takes less time to get ready for a trip, an elephant or a rooster?

A: The rooster, he takes only his comb, while the elephant has to take a trunk.

Q: Which candles burn longer, wax or tallow candles?

A: Neither, they both burn shorter.
